

Oracle is registered under the EU-U.S. and Swiss-U.S. Data Privacy Frameworks, and the UK extension

On July 10, 2023, the European Commission adopted an adequacy decision for the new EU-U.S. Data Privacy Framework. As such, EU personal information can be transferred without the need for additional safeguards from the EU to companies located in the U.S. to the extent such companies are participating under the framework. Similarly, the U.S. Department of Commerce also maintains a U.K. Extension to the Data Privacy Framework and a Swiss-U.S. Data Privacy Framework (collectively, the “DPF”).

The DPF seeks to address privacy concerns adjudicated by the Court of Justice of the EU in the July 2020 Schrems II decision, which led to the invalidation of the Privacy Shield framework. More information about Oracle’s response to this decision and related EDPB guidance on supplementary safeguards is available in our FAQs about Data Flows and Oracle Services.

Oracle has self-certified under the DPF and is listed as an active participant for the EU-U.S. DPF, the UK Extension to the DPF and the Swiss-U.S. DPF. Customers and Oracle can avail themselves of the benefits offered by the DPF, which includes the ability to base relevant data transfers on the European Commission’s adequacy decision for data transfers from the EU, UK or Switzerland to the US.

In addition, Oracle has and continues to rely on other appropriate data transfer safeguards such as its Binding Corporate Rules for Processors (BCR-p) and Standard Contractual Clauses, where and as applicable to transfers of EU/EEA, Swiss and UK personal information.

The services agreement between You and Oracle references the applicable version of the Oracle Data Processing Agreement, which provides further details on the relevant data transfer mechanism that applies to Your order for Oracle services.

Copyright © 2024, Oracle and/or its affiliates. All rights reserved. This document is provided for information purposes only, and the contents hereof are subject to change without notice. This document is not warranted to be error-free, nor subject to any other warranties or conditions, whether expressed orally or implied in law, including implied warranties and conditions of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose. We specifically disclaim any liability with respect to this document, and no contractual obligations are formed either directly or indirectly by this document. This document may not be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic or mechanical, for any purpose, without our prior written permission.